5 THINGS TO KNOW

WELCOME TO METRO.US

JOE PANTORNO, SPORTS EDITOR

It's not often that New York City experiences an NFL Sunday in which both the Giants and Jets win. That's exactly what happened, though, in Week 14 as the Giants blew out the Redskins while the Jets came from behind to pull out a late winner in Buffalo. Cherish days like this, because we might not see it for a while. For more, head inside to Pages 18-20.

1 MANAFORT PARDON A 'TERRIBLE MISTAKE': RUBIO

President Donald Trump would make a "terrible mistake" if he pardoned his former campaign Chairman Paul Manafort after charges brought as a result of the federal probe into Russian election interference, Republican Sen. Marco Rubio said on Sunday. "I just think it would be the wrong thing to do and I think it would be a huge political mistake as well," Rubio said on CNN's "State of the Union." Manafort faces sentencing on his convictions in August of tax and bank fraud charges. In a court filing on Friday, Special Counsel Robert Mueller said Manafort lied to investigators about his interactions with a Russian tied to Russian intelligence services. That filing detailed why Mueller's office last week retracted a plea agreement with Manafort. He pleaded guilty in September to two conspiracy charges and agreed to cooperate with investigators in hopes of a lighter sentence. Trump has not ruled out a pardon for Manafort and has praised him as a good man. In contrast, he has said his former longtime "fixer" Michael Cohen, who has cooperated with federal prosecutors, should go to jail.

2 CHINA TO US: WITHDRAW HUAWEI ARREST WARRANT

China's foreign ministry called in the U.S. ambassador on Sunday to lodge a "strong protest" over the arrest in Canada of Huawei Technologies Co. Ltd.'s chief financial officer, and said the United States should withdraw its arrest warrant. Meng Wanzhou, Huawei's global chief financial officer, was arrested in Canada on Dec. 1 and faces extradition to the United States, which alleges that she covered up her company's links to a firm that tried to sell equipment to Iran despite sanctions. The executive is also the daughter of the founder of Huawei. Chinese Vice Foreign Minister Le Yucheng told U.S. ambassador Terry Branstad that the United States had made an "unreasonable demand" on Canada to detain Meng while she was passing through Vancouver, China's foreign ministry said. "The actions of the U.S. seriously violated the lawful and legitimate rights of the Chinese citizen, and by their nature were extremely nasty," Le told Branstad, comments similar to those he made to Canada's ambassador the night before. "China strongly urges the U.S. to pay attention to China's solemn and just position and withdraw the arrest warrant."

4 WINTER STORM KNOCKS OUT POWER IN SOUTHEAST

A powerful winter storm that hit the U.S. Southeast over the weekend knocked out power for more than 380,000 customers and forced the cancellation of hundreds of flights on Sunday. Authorities urged residents to stay off the roads as snow, sleet, and freezing rain were expected to continue through Sunday night and into Monday morning, the National Weather Service said. The agency reported between four and 12 inches of snow in some areas and warned about continuing snowfalls which could bring as much as a foot and a half from western and northern North Carolina to southwest Virginia. More than 380,000 customers were without power in the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee and Virginia on Sunday afternoon, Poweroutage.us reported. The storm prompted more than 1,000 flight cancellations at Charlotte/Douglas International Airport and other airports across the region, according to flight-tracking website FlightAware. North Carolina Gov. Roy Cooper said on Sunday that the state of emergency would remain in effect and that the North Carolina National Guard had been activated to help with the response.

5 MACRON TO RESPOND TO 'YELLOW VEST' PROTESTERS

French President Emmanuel Macron will address the country on Monday as he seeks to placate "yellow vest" anti-government protesters who wreaked havoc in Paris this weekend. On Sunday, workers in Paris and other cities swept up broken glass and towed away burnt-out cars while the government warned of slower economic growth and the judiciary said it would come down hard on looting and attacks on police. On Saturday, protesters, for the fourth weekend in a row, threw stones, torched cars and vandalized shops and restaurants in a protest against Macron's economic policies. The Elysee palace said on Sunday that Macron, elected in May 2017, would address the country on Monday evening at 20:00 Paris time. On Monday morning, he will meet with trade unions, employers' organizations and local elected officials as he tries to formulate a response to an unstructured movement that has taken France by storm and broken through traditional political and trade union communication channels with the government.

BHS oral history project sheds light on Muslims in Brooklyn

The experience of Muslims in Brooklyn is as diverse as the borough itself, a new Brooklyn Historical Society project shows.

If you asked a New Yorker what a Brooklynite looks like, they could give you a million different answers. The same goes for the question of what a Muslim in Brooklyn looks like — and the Brooklyn Historical Society has multiple examples at the ready.

A new oral history called "Muslims in Brooklyn" is shedding light on one oft-overlooked community, revealing how it is as diverse as the entire borough itself.

"Brooklyn has played such a significant role in so many important stories of Muslims in America" said Zaheer Ali, "Muslims in Brooklyn" project director. "One of the oldest continuous Muslim communities in the United States is in Brooklyn. One of the oldest mosques in the country was founded in Williamsburg."

There's so much Muslim history here already, Ali added, that it was easy to put this project together. But Ali's effort doesn't try to fit this community into one box. More than 50 people, ranging in age from 24 to 74, were interviewed for the project.

"There is no one single profile — national, ethnic, racial — that you could say, 'This is what a Muslim looks like,'" he said. "The attempts [so far] to profile Muslims, I think, are confounded by the reality of who Muslims are, where they come from and the diversity of people that these communities contain."

Though there's some talk about experiencing hate crimes as a Muslim in America — hate crimes are on the rise in New York City, and anti-Muslim incidents and Islamophobia are up across the country — that's far from the only narrative. At its core, the Brooklyn Historical Society project is just about being human.

"The experiences of Muslims are unique but not exceptional," Ali said. Within the oral history project, "you hear stories of childhood, growing up, teenage fights with parents, dreams of the future, regrets of the past — all of the things that are part of the human experience become much more central as you listen to these interviews."

Moustafa Bayoumi, a teacher at Brooklyn College, is one of the narrators for the Brooklyn Historical Society project. He's lived in Brooklyn nearly 20 years after growing up in Canada, and talked about his personal migration story. He also touched on his experience with internet fame after one of his tweets from during a 2016 presidential debate went viral.

But Bayoumi said his stories are no more important than the others. The project is about the collective experience of hearing all of these different tales.

"I think the value of the project is not only in my contribution, but the fact that there are so many different contributions from different elements of the community, or communities, because there are so many different parts of the larger Muslim community," he said. "It's really part of our shared American history."

Firefighter killed in road-rage attack

Faizal Coto was found dead next to his car on the Belt Parkway.

JEFF TOMKO
jeff.tomko@metro.us

An FDNY firefighter was killed early Sunday morning after a car crash on Brooklyn's Belt Parkway turned into an alleged road-rage attack.

According to the New York Post, Faizal Coto, 33, an off-duty firefighter, got into an altercation with another individual just before 5 a.m. after their cars appeared to bump into each other along Bay 8th Street in Bath Beach.

The Post reported that police, after watching video, said the argument between the two got physical, with Coto being hit with an unknown object.

Police and medics found Coto lying next to his 2008 Ford Mustang. He was rushed to Coney Island Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

According to multiple reports, Coto was a three-year member of the FDNY. Pix11 added that Coto was an aspiring rapper, with the stage name "Faiya."

Friends mourned Coto's passing on social media on Sunday.

"RIP brother, so sad to see that this happened. This world is an ugly place to even the best people. We were just hanging out after CFR refresher thinking we had time to chill again soon. Keep spittin that fire in heaven bro," Albert Bravo wrote on Facebook.

Added Bianca-Michelle Figueroa: "My heart aches... this is such a hard pill to swallow. The Figueroa/Sánchez family will be praying for your family in this tough tough time. RIP Fiasco."

Vigil for migrant deaths and disappearances in New York

On Saturday, families of missing migrants, along with artists and migrant justice groups from the borderlands, held a vigil in Battery Park in New York City to demand justice for those who have disappeared or died while crossing the U.S.-Mexico border. This gathering was organized by the Colibri Center for Human Rights, a nonprofit with the mission to end death and disappearance and uphold human dignity along the U.S.-Mexico border, in partnership with No More Deaths/No Más Muertes, Armadillos Búsqueda y Rescate, and artists from the borderlands. Top Dems say Trump may face impeachment, jail over hush money

The president, meanwhile, tweeted for the "witch hunt" to end.

President Donald Trump could face impeachment and jail time if hush money payments reported by his former lawyer are proven to be campaign finance violations, Democratic lawmakers said on Sunday.

Court filings on Friday in cases that stemmed from a federal probe into Russian activities during the 2016 presidential election pointed to potential problem areas for Trump, including whether he instructed six-figure payments to two women during the campaign to keep quiet about affairs.

Federal prosecutors sought prison time for longtime Trump "fixer" Michael Cohen for paying off an adult-film star and a former Playboy model at Trump's behest, evading taxes and lying to Congress about a proposed Trump Organization building in Moscow.

If the payments are proven to be felony campaign finance violations, Democratic U.S. Rep. Jerrold Nadler told CNN, those would be grounds for impeachment.

"Well, they would be impeachable offenses. Whether they are important enough to justify an impeachment is a different question," said Nadler, who will lead the Judiciary Committee when Democrats take control of the House in January.

Under U.S. law, campaign contributions, defined as things of value given to a campaign to influence an election, must be disclosed. Such payments are also limited to $2,700 per person.

Friday's court filings also revealed new information about contacts between people working for Trump and Russians in the cases of Cohen, Trump's former longtime personal lawyer, and Paul Manafort, Trump's short-lived campaign chairman who was convicted in August on tax and bank fraud charges.

Special Counsel Robert Mueller said Manafort lied to investigators about his interactions with a Russian tied to Russian intelligence services. Mueller's office said the lying prompted prosecutors last week to retract a plea agreement with Manafort on two separate conspiracy charges.

Mueller is investigating Russian interference in the 2016 presidential election and whether Trump's campaign colluded with Moscow to sway the election. Russia denies interfering in the 2016 election and Trump has denied any collusion occurred.

The investigation has cast a shadow over Trump's presidency, with its implication that Moscow may have had a hand in his White House victory. The Republican president repeatedly has expressed his impatience with the probe that Mueller took over in March 2017, saying it was politically motivated.

Trump said the filings did not prove any collusion with Russia and called for an end to the investigation.

"Time for the Witch Hunt to END!" Trump said in a Twitter post on Saturday.

However, the end of the Mueller probe could be the beginning of bigger problems for Trump.

"There's a very real prospect that on the day Donald Trump leaves office the Justice Department may indict him, that he may be the first president in quite some time to face the real prospect of jail time," Rep. Adam Schiff, the Democrat who will lead the House Intelligence Committee next year, told CBS' "Face the Nation."

Ayers will not become President Trump's chief of staff: Sources

Mnuchin, Meadows now considered to succeed John Kelly.

Nick Ayers will not become President Donald Trump's next chief of staff, and the president is considering two other officials instead, sources familiar with the matter said on Sunday.

The president is considering current Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin and Republican Rep. Mark Meadows, chairman of the right-wing House Freedom Caucus, one source said.

Ayers, currently Vice President Mike Pence's chief of staff, tweeted that he would be leaving the White House shortly. Sources said he would be joining a political action committee.

"I will be departing at the end of the year but will work with the #MAGA team to advance the cause," he wrote on Twitter, in a reference to Trump's slogan, "Make America Great Again."

Trump will decide on his new chief of staff by the end of the year, the sources said. The president said on Saturday that current White House Chief of Staff John Kelly would leave the post by year's end.

"I think Donald Trump desperately needs in that job someone who can walk into the Oval Office, close the door, and tell him what he does not want to hear."

Chris Whipple, author of "The Gatekeepers"

One source said Trump had sought a two-year commitment from Ayers and that Ayers was unable to agree to that.

A photogenic Georgia native, Ayers has advised a series of high-profile Republican governors and has been Vice President Mike Pence's chief of staff, running one of the most effective political teams in Washington.

He has spent his entire career in Republican politics — a sharp contrast to the man he would replace, retired Marine Corps general John Kelly — and earned a fortune selling ads to political campaigns.

Still, Ayers has little experience wheeling and dealing on legislation in Congress and would take the reins at a time when Trump is weakened by Democrats winning control of the House of Representatives at midterm elections last month.

Chris Whipple, who wrote a book on White House chiefs of staff called "The Gatekeepers," expressed skepticism that Ayers had enough clout to be effective as Trump's chief of staff.

"I think Donald Trump desperately needs in that job someone who can walk into the Oval Office, close the door, and tell him what he does not want to hear," Whipple said.

Heisman winner Kyler Murray apologizes for homophobic tweets

The Oklahoma QB made the tweets as a 15-year-old.

Kyler Murray celebrated his Heisman Trophy win in New York on Saturday night, but not long after the Oklahoma quarterback found himself playing defense.

Murray issued an apology via Twitter for using homophobic slurs in social media messages that remained active into the early hours of Sunday morning. Those Twitter posts have since been deleted following Murray's statement.

"I apologize for the tweets that have come to light tonight from when I was 14 and 15. I used a poor choice of word that doesn't reflect who I am or what I believe. I did not intend to single out any individual or group," Murray said.

The since-deleted tweets had a timestamp that indicate the posts were from a 15-year-old Murray.

The Heisman night social media sting is the latest in a trend of resurfacing the existing social media activity, however dated, of athletes following major achievements.

Villanova Final Four Most Outstanding Player Donte DiVincenzo spent part of the national championship postgame clarifying why insensitive rap lyrics were used on his Twitter feed. DiVincenzo left Villanova and was a first-round pick in the 2018 NBA Draft.

Another top-10 pick, Wyoming quarterback Josh Allen, had his high school Twitter activity exposed the night before the NFL draft. Allen apologized for the racist posts from his personal account from 2012 and 2013.

Murray, also an OU baseball player drafted ninth overall by the Oakland Athletics in July, plans to report to spring training in 2019 after his collegiate football career concludes, though some have suggested he might opt to head to the NFL instead.

"Kyler has agreed and the A's agreed to a baseball contract that gave him permission to play college football through the end of the collegiate season," agent Scott Boras said this week over the phone. "After that, he is under contract to play baseball. That is not a determination to make. It's already done."

The Powerful (and little known) Back Pain Treatment Used By Smart New Yorkers Who Don't Want Back Surgery or Opioid Drugs

NEW YORK CITY - A major back pain relief opportunity is at hand. But if you are interested, you must act quickly.

Here is why: Back pain ruins lives... and puzzles doctors.

You go through so many exams and tests... and treatments... and only end up suffering and frustrated.

And everyone is quick to say they have the "new breakthrough solution."

Am I right?

Well, the fact of the matter is... treating back pain is difficult. But advances in modern medical science and technology have created a treatment that has gotten great results with countless back pain sufferers who had tried everything else. Many had given up hope.

This treatment is called: "Radiofrequncy Neurotomy." RF for s short. And here's how is works...

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

There are many nerves around your back or neck and one of their jobs is to sense PAIN.

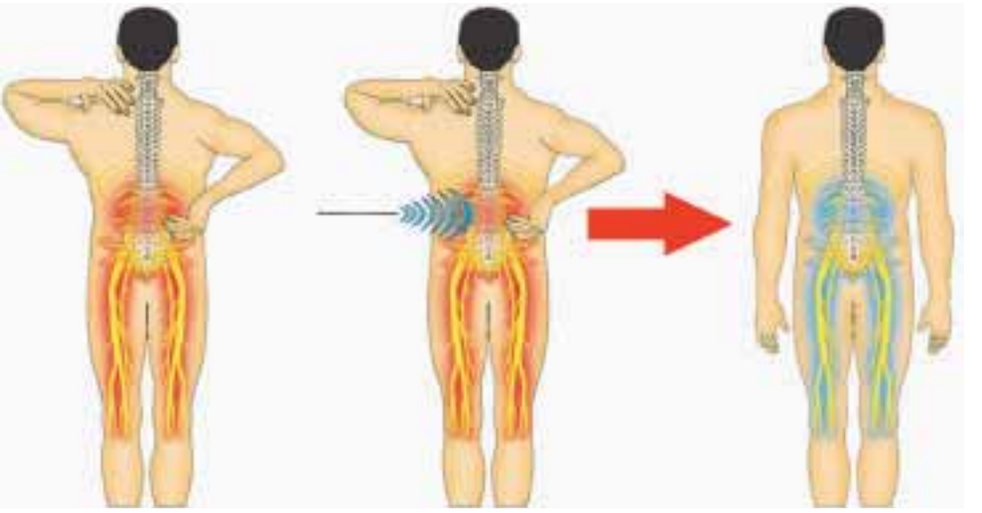
Radiofreqeuncy waves are delivered to these nerves under advanced precision medical imaging to target the damaged areas... done right in their own clinic without intimidating, expensive hospitals or surgical centers ... to "block" the painful nerve flow.

Two steps in the formula are performed. First, a test or diagnostic "Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function. If this first "test" procedure is successful, RF Neurotomy or "Radiofrequency" will be performed for longer term relief.

NOT just the Treatment alone that's the key ingredient.

You see, the real secret is the formula. And that again starts with a proper screening evaluation to determine if you are a good candidate and may achieve the results you are looking forward to. This is always Step number one.

And the best part about this screening is… It's FREE



FREE screening available for powerful back pain treatment

This screening will give you so much relief just knowing what is going on… and what your best options are.

That's right. NYC Pain MD offers this first step screening at no cost to patients The only problem is… they often get over 100 inquiries a day as they also treat almost every painful area and joint. Sometimes its hard to get through. If you don't get through to someone when you call… keep calling… or leave a message... it will be well worth it.

But that's just the first step

After your free screening, if you qualify, the doctors will discuss the best treatment plan for you in a way that you will understand completely. Not all complex "doctor talk"...

This may be one… or a combination of the advanced medical treatments offered at NYC Pain MD.

Everything will be explained and all your questions will be answered. And even better:

You will be given all this At NO COST. NYC Pain MD doc's are not like used car salesman. They will not be giving you a sales pitch. They are doctors and will give you the best possible options to help your pain and offer to help you the best way they can. In fact, with up to 100 inquiries a day from patient's looking for relief, it's often hard to even get a treatment spot.

You should also know this: While NYC Pain MD cannot help everyone… so many have gotten the pain relief they were looking for.

One of the reasons they offer those first step free screenings, is because it has opened the door to so many people to get help that they never would have otherwise.

At the very least, you will finally have some direction and a plan. And... whether you have the best, worst or no insurance at all, NYC Pain MD programs can be made affordable to everyone

They do not want insurance issues… or not being rich or famous… to keep you away if you are suffering in pain.

How To Schedule Your Risk-Free No-Obligation Screening Evaluation

There is a whole lot more I could say about their treatments etc… but this space is limited and that's best left for you and the doctors to discuss in person.

So… if you are even remotely interested … take the a first step and give them a call at 877-245-9252 and ask for your free screening.

One more thing... We often get over 100 calls in a single day. For that reason, if when you call you do not get a live scheduling coordinator, make sure to leave your name, number and time of your call on our voicemail. They will get back to you as soon as possible. Again, the number to call is 877-245-9252. More info at: painmdny.com/back-pain

GOING TO CONCERTS AS A SHORTER PERSON CAN BE A DRAG

I get excited at concerts and want to stand however there is a time to sit and let other people enjoy what's in front of them. I have a lifelong problem, I am short and I can never see anything. There is always somebody taller than myself sitting in front of me blocking my view. I never get to see anything. It's very discouraging. So next time take a look around and see who you're disturbing by you standing and not giving other people the opportunity to also enjoy the show. This happens to me in every situation whether it be the movies, a concert, a show, etc..

Regards from a short girl just trying to have fun too.

DON'T BLOCK MY VIEW!

People who want to stand up just don't get it. Standing up is fine, just don't block my view! Stand up, sit down, watch the game, watch the concert. Just have some respect for the person behind you! If you think you should be standing up in front of me, you've got another thing coming. Maybe you should go home so you could play with your iPhone?

R.I.P., PETE SHELLEY

This week we lost one of rock and rolls true architects, Pete Shelley. Founder and lead songwriter of the seminal '77 British punk band The Buzzcocks, Shelley was one of the genre's true songsmiths who brought a subtle grace and melodicism to a genre so defined by blunt aggression. With their stone-cold classic collection of singles titled "Singles Going Steady," songs like "What Do I Get", "Ever Fallen in Love (With Someone You Shouldn't Have Fallen in Love With)" , and "Everybody's Happy Nowadays" laid the groundwork for thousands of pop-leaning punk bands to come. Would there be a Green Day without a song like "Promises"? It's pretty doubtful. Rather than trying to take on the world with his songs like other bands of his era such as the Sex Pistols and the Clash, Shelley looked inward to the conflicts of the heart. His, at times, extremely self-effacing exploration of his own romantic failings always had a genuine sense of humor to it but also strove to have a nuanced empathy that few songwriters had before and surely won't after. If you are unfamiliar with his work with the Buzzcocks or his numerous solo records, do yourself a favor and pick up a copy of "Singles Going Steady." You won't regret it. Rest in Power, Pete Shelley.

Capricorn Go over plans or take care of important details that should be handled before the year comes to a close. Someone will offer personal insight into an important partnership.

Aquarius Take a moment to reflect on your personal habits and health regimen. Diet and exercise should be priorities, along with new beginnings as the new year approaches.

Pisces Do whatever you can to bring a little joy to someone who is alone or needs help. Your gesture will not only change someone else's life, it will change yours as well. EUGENIA LAST

Natalia Dyer explores a dark family secret in 'Mountain Rest'

The "Stranger Things" star opens up about her latest film.

MATT JUUL
matthew.juul@metro.us

Natalia Dyer stars in "Mountain Rest." FILMRISE

Natalia Dyer is used to exploring the strange and the weird as Nancy Wheeler on the hit Netflix series "Stranger Things," but the 21-year-old star got the chance to unravel a different kind of mystery in her latest project "Mountain Rest."

In the film, Dyer plays Clara, a teenage girl who goes on a trip with her mother Frankie (Kate Lyn Sheil) to visit Clara's eccentric grandmother Ethel (Frances Conroy) for the first time. After learning she only has months to live, Ethel wants to reconnect with her family and meet her granddaughter, so she invites them to her secluded cabin in the mountains for an elaborate party with her collection of oddball friends.

Over the course of the weekend, Clara discovers that her fun-loving, "Disneyland" grandmother harbors dark secrets that are seemingly behind Ethel's estrangement from her daughter Frankie.

"She's a bit of voyeur here," Dyer says of her character. "There's a lot that she doesn't know, so there's a lot to be explored and learned on her part."

Despite Ethel's sometimes unsettling behavior — such as talking to her deceased husband or having a live-in boyfriend half her age — Clara takes a liking to her grandmother and wants to get closer to her. At times, this puts Clara at odds with Frankie, although their rift is also fueled by your typical mother-daughter tensions.

Dyer could relate to Clara's relationship with Frankie, as she recalls not agreeing with her own mother on a lot of issues at that age.

"Clara's at that stage that I think most women go through when they're transitioning between being a girl and becoming a young woman. There's often some discord with the mom," says Dyer. "I love my mom dearly and I always have, but there was definitely that period where we couldn't really see eye to eye, and yet we were so intertwined by this very special, familial mother-daughter relationship. It's just so push-and-pull.

GETTY

"There's a bit of secrecy around Frankie's past and therefore Clara's past," she adds. "In some ways, getting closer to Ethel helps her get closer to Frankie in a deeper way."

According to first-time filmmaker Alex O Eaton, the story of "Mountain Rest" was inspired by her fascination "with people's right to choose to die," a "heavy subject" that plays a role in explaining Ethel's behavior during her family's visit.

"When I was writing it, there had been a lot of news about people being able to decide when they want to die," says Eaton. "God, this kind of sounds horrible, but it's not because what was so inspiring to me about it was hearing about this one man in particular in The New York Times who wrote about how once he made his decision, he regained all of his power because he controlled his own destiny again. He didn't let the cancer guide his life."

For Eaton, who previously worked as an assistant to Jonah Hill, "Mountain Rest" is a very personal film. Not only was it shot at her cabin in North Carolina, but the character of Ethel was inspired by her father's acting mentor as well.

"She was a very eccentric, kind of hippy actress lady," says Eaton. "Growing up, she amazed me and terrified me at the same time. That's exactly what Ethel does."

At its core, "Mountain Rest" is a female-driven project — both on- and offscreen — about three generations of women, which is what attracted Dyer to sign on to the film.

"It's an opportunity to be seized," Dyer says of working with so many other women on "Mountain Rest." "It was fantastic and a different environment than I had ever worked in before."

"Mountain Rest" is now in select theaters and is also available to watch on digital video services.

'If Beale Street Could Talk' showcases the power of love, community and people

Actor Stephan James, director Barry Jenkins, and actor KiKi Layne. TATUM MANGUS / ANNAPURNA PICTURES

It is depressing just how divided the world still is in 2018. But, as always, there is still hope. In fact, the answer to this division can be found in "If Beale Street Could Talk," Barry Jenkins' adaptation of James Baldwin's 1974 novel.

Jenkins' follow-up to the Oscar-winning "Moonlight" revolves around the pursuit of Tish, a young pregnant black woman in 1970s Harlem, who with the help and love of her family goes up against the police and various injustices in her attempt to prove the innocence of her husband-to-be Fonny, an artist who has been arrested for a crime he did not commit.

"I want audiences to take away this idea that there is strength in being connected to people," explains KiKi Layne, who is achingly brilliant as Tish. "There is this idea that the more stuff you can do on your own, the more independent you are, that is what makes you stronger.

"This film speaks to you loving the people around you and allowing them to love you and being connected through whatever circumstances you might be dealing with," she adds.

It is still "a little unreal" to Layne that she landed the key role in such an integral and timely piece of cinema. Fresh out of school, "If Beale Street Could Talk" not only marks her debut film but also the adjustment of her acting style, as she has a "predominantly theatrical" background, which meant she quickly had to learn "to just let things go" while shooting.

Thankfully, she had a prestigious teacher in Jenkins, who instantly recognized why Layne was perfect for the role.

"Barry said I had the ability to bring Tish's innocence and a youthful wonder, but at the same time we can see her become a woman," recalls Layne.

Fresh off the success of "Moonlight," Jenkins is at the peak of his powers with "If Beale Street Could Talk," as he majestically and subtly maneuvers his audience through the film, juxtaposing a luscious romance with a devastating and powerful reality.

"With this book in particular, Baldwin wrote in two voices," Jenkins explains. "One is just really sensual and passionate and dealing with romantic relationships.

"The other is just as passionate, but a societal critique, in particular the role of American society in the lives of black folks. Those things just fuse together so organically in this book that I fell in love with it."

But while Baldwin wrote "If Beale Street Could Talk" in 1974 and Jenkins actually adapted it into a script in 2013, at the same time he penned "Moonlight," the film still feels bitingly relevant in 2018.

"There is so much going on in the world right now that is either directly or tangentially referenced in the story," says Jenkins. "I could never have planned for that. The book was written in 1974 and it is a pretty faithful adaptation.

"The problem is that this book was published in 1974 and so much of it is relevant to today," he adds. "It just shows that for all the progress that we have made, there is still so much further that we have to go."

"If Beale Street Could Talk" hits theaters Dec. 14. GREGORY WAKEMAN

ST. JOSEPH'S UNIVERSITY

How autism break rooms can bring more inclusion to school sporting events

St. Joseph's University recently introduced this concept, with outstanding results.

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

On Sunday, Dec. 2, Philly college basketball fans filled the Hagan Arena to watch the St. Joseph's University Hawks play against the Villanova Wildcats.

While the game was a narrow loss for the Hawks, the university had what may have been a huge victory that could change the way large sporting events on a national level. St. Joseph's is the only school in the country to introduce autism break rooms to its sporting events so that fans of all ages who live with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) can enjoy on their own level.

The first of these rooms was designed and is staffed by experts at the university's nationally recognized Kinney Center who have also trained volunteers known as "game-day leaders" on how they can best support families who need to take advantage of the room's services. The break room has been stocked with "sensory-friendly items" such as stress balls, bean bag chairs, bounce boards, weighted blankets, noise-canceling headphones, and more. This room will be a perfect place for Hawks fans to go and take a breather all while enjoying the game up close.

According to Joseph McCleery, executive director of academic programs at the Kinney Center for Autism, providing a space of inclusion for fans on the spectrum can be one of the most effective ways to pique the interests of sports fans with ASD and to help them have a healthier relationship with sports and physical activity.

"People on the spectrum are people," says Dr. McCleery. "They're varied quite a bit. ... Just like other people, there are some people on the spectrum who are interested and others who are less interested. For those people on the spectrum who are more interested in sports, whether it's playing or just being a superfan and observing, they might still shy away from the games. So our break room is not just for children on the spectrum, it is for adults on the spectrum as well."

As it turned out, the inaugural game day for St. Joseph's break rooms was a success, with 10 people using the room for about 10-15 minutes at a time and with many people returning a couple of times during the game. Dr. McCleery views this as such a success in that each of these fans was able to return to the game once they had calmed down from the sensory spectacle of the event, as normally the alternative would be to leave the arena.

By providing an environment of inclusion at sporting events, people with ASD will also build more confidence to try to engage in physical activity and exercise after witnessing what goes on on the court in between plays and half-time. By introducing this new sense of obtainability into their lives, Dr. McCleery has found that it can do wonders for the treatment of people who are on the spectrum.

"We find that if you do the right activity, for example, if you don't focus on competition and winning and you focus more on participation and enjoyment, people on the spectrum are more willing to engage in those actions," explains Dr. McCleery.

"Similarly, instead of a teacher telling someone what to do, actually running with them or playing soccer with them is a great way to help motivate people on the spectrum. Just like anyone, you don't necessarily just want to be told what to do. You want them to speak with their actions.

"Having good models is really important for everyone and if people on the spectrum can't go to these games, then they won't have those models."

Jets snap skid with late winner

Last-minute touchdown clinches Jets' first win since Week 6.

JOE PANTORNO
joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The first of what is expected to be many meetings between rookie quarterbacks Sam Darnold and Josh Allen on Sunday afternoon went the way of the New York Jets quarterback

Elijah McGuire's one-yard touchdown rush with 1:17 left in the game ensured that vengeance was served in Week 14 as the Jets took down the Bills 27-23, just four weeks after Gang Green was embarrassed 41-10 by Buffalo.

The victory ends the Jets' miserable six-game losing streak that not only ended their season but likely will lead to head coach Todd Bowles to lose his job.

It was the exclamation point on a 14-point fourth quarter, overturning what once was a 14-3 first-half deficit.

Darnold completed 16-of-24 passes for 170 yards and a touchdown in the victory, a stat line that looked meager compared to Allen's day as he passed for 206 yards while rushing for an additional 101.

It was a relief for the Jets to see Darnold finish the game, though, as an injury scare looked as though it would end his day early.

In his return from injury, Sam Darnold led the Jets to their first win since Week 6.

GETTY IMAGES

After missing the last three games due to a foot injury, Darnold was helped to the locker room just nine minutes into Week 14, when he fell awkwardly after scrambling during the first quarter.

He would be back under center by the final minute of the first quarter, where his team was facing a two-possession deficit as the Bills once again got off to a hot start.

The Jets weren't without chances, including an early, second-quarter drive that meandered down to the red zone. However, they were unable to punch it home from Buffalo's three-yard line.

It was the fifth straight red zone drive that did not end in a touchdown, heaping more misery on the league's worst red-zone offense.

That streak finally snapped just minutes later, when Trenton Cannon punched in a six-yard touchdown run, set up by an 86-yard kickoff return by Andre Roberts, following a Bills field goal to make it 17-6.

It was the Jets' first offensive touchdown in nine quarters and 25 drives and cut their halftime lead to just four despite accruing just 68 yards of total offense, 19 yards fewer than Allen's 87 rushing yards in the opening 30 minutes.

Darnold would tie the game at 20 with 12 minutes left when he came up big in the red zone. Avoiding the sack and scrambling approximately 30 yards in the backfield to extend the play, Darnold hit Robby Anderson for a seven-yard score for his first touchdown pass since Week 9.

Important Knee Arthritis Pain Alert:

Study Finds Updated Treatment Helped Avoid Knee Replacement Surgery For 75% Of Worst Cases At Least 7.3 Years . . .

NYC - What would it be worth to you if… in just 60 minutes… you could finally discover a way to get relief for your knee arthritis pain?

And…

How would it feel if you could wake up tomorrow morning and some... or even all your pain was gone?

And…

Wouldn't it be wonderful to start a brand new life and leave all your pain and suffering behind?

A life where…

…you jump out of bed in the morning, well rested and ready to take on the new day, without pain…

…you don't have to take slow, limping laps around your bedroom just to be able to walk every morning…

…you can go for walks, go up and down stairs and maybe even play sports like tennis and golf again…

…you can finally do all the things and enjoy life (just like everyone else) without constant, nagging pain…

Well… that's exactly what can possibly happen to you if you spend just 60 minutes with us…

…Because that's all it will take for one of our expert doctors to show you what we believe to be the safest, and most effective knee arthritis pain treatment there is…

I know you may find this hard to believe. Just about every one does when we tell them about this… at first.

But it doesn't take long for them to turn from skeptic to raving fan as soon as their pain improves so fast.

Do You Have An Open Mind?

So, I'm not asking you to believe me just yet. All I ask is you approach this and read the rest of this information with an open mind. If you give us a chance, we promise, you won't be disappointed…

Because There is Proof
Real medical proof.

Here it is. A leading Orthopedic Surgeon and knee pain expert was getting excellent results with this non-surgical treatment on his own patients. In fact, this study involved almost 2000 patients followed over 10 years.

And more specifically, he was getting amazing results the way HE was doing this treatment using high tech imaging for precise technique.. just like we do it..

And he wanted to prove... beyond a shadow of a doubt... the results he got .. were not only REAL.. they could most likely work for others just like you.

So he conducted some research, an 11 year project, and is was published in the "Journal of Knee Surgery".... a Real and REPUTABLE medical journal (A copy of this research is available on our website or by mail)

What were his results and what do they mean for your pain?

In this study he found that 75% of the severe knee arthritis pain patients he treated... and were facing knee replacement surgery... did not need to have knee replacement surgery... and were still OK 7.3 years later!

This is incredible news for you - and here's is why...

The patients in this study were Stage 4 knee arthritis. That's the most advanced and worst stage. These are the cases that are usually sent for knee replacement surgery.

These patients had also gone through the common medical treatments like pain and anti-inflammatory pills, physical therapy etc. and all that had failed.

So... these were the WORST cases of which every thing else had failed ... YET, after this treatment, 75% still did not need knee replacement even more than 7 years later.

And it gets better. The study only collected data up to that time. It is pretty safe to say that many may never need surgery.

Bottom line: This study clearly showed this treatment is safe and extremely effective even for even the worst cases.

So, even if you aren't one of the worst cases... imagine what it can do for you.

What IS This Treatment
And How Can You Find Out
If It Can Help You?

As studied as this treatment is.... you may have an "Oh No!" reaction. Why? Because there is a very good chance you have heard of it. You may have even given it a try... and NOT gotten good results.

That's because this treatment is actually pretty common now a days. But... and this is a very big BUT... there is a very specific way to apply this treatment (as done in the study) that makes it so successful. And many are NOT doing it this way.

So... please hear us out. This really might be the answer you are looking for.

Ok... here is the treatment and the full scoop on why it works so well... when done THIS WAY.

The treatment is called "viscosupplementation." It is frequently called, "gel treatment ." Or "joint oil".

In this treatment, a gel is painlessly injected directly into you arthritic joint . This lubricates the joint, reduces friction... and allows more movement without all the inflammation and "grinding" caused by arthritis. This is like putting oil on a rusty hinge. Once the oil is applied, the hinge can move must better.

But here is something you must know: In that research project, all of the procedures were done with highly advanced imaging to guide the injections and make sure the gel got into the joint space area ultra-precisely.

This is EXTREMELY important... because... research also shows that injections done WITHOUT this imaging to guide them... can miss the joint space about one third of the time.

That means, in one third of the injections, the gel wasn't in the joint space and couldn't possibly work!!!

We feel this is why so many people have tried this treatment and DIDN'T get good results like in the patients in this research.

So, if you have already had this treatment and it didn't work... was it done with this advanced medical imaging?

If not... there is still hope.

In fact, there is a very good chance you can still get relief.

Here is why: NYC Pain MD is a medical clinic located at 65 Broadway Suite 1004 New York, NY 10006.

We have physicians who focus in this treatment... and we use the advanced imaging to make sure the treatments are extremely precise and get the best results possible.

In fact, we have a doctor trained at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, Cornell University and even Harvard Medical School.

We have the best... but we also make treatments VERY affordable

Just because we offer the best possible treatments and doctors... doesn't mean we are so expensive only rich people can get our wonderful treatments.

While treatments may be covered by Medicare and some insurances... we also offer pricing plans for as little as $13.57 per week so patients can finally relieve their pain and try to avoid surgery.

We don't want lack of insurance or money to be the reason you continue suffering.

Your Special Invitation…

If you have knee arthritis pain... and are even just a little interested in finding out what this treatment can do for you... we are inviting you to come in for a FREE screening appointment.

During this screening, you will get to talk to the doctor... ask questions... and find out if you qualify.

We will go over everything with you... and you will breathe a big sigh of relieve finally having real answers and a specific plan to to possibly relieve your pain.

We will leave no stone unturned... and we will help you any way we can.

Please understand this:

This treatment can possibly take away your pain...

No matter how long you've been suffering. It really doesn't matter. It may take a little more time if you've been suffering for years as opposed to a "new" case… but in the end… you can still get tremendous results . . .

No matter how bad or helpless you THINK your case is. Many of our patients thought their case was hopeless , too far gone, for anything to help them. Many of their previous doctors told them that. Well you're NOT. With this treatment… the way our expert doctors do it... there is always hope.

Most of our patients have told us we were their last resort. Last stop before packing it in and completely giving up and submitting to surgery. They soon found out that our treatments made it really easy to get relief… and, best of all…

You Get To See If You Qualify For FREE

That's' right. We want you to see EVERYTHING first hand and to prove to you... without a shadow of a doubt... we have the help for your knee pain that you are desperately wanting. And we want to do it without you spending a penny or risking anything to find out.

That's why we are offering you this free screening.

So my big question for you is – is the opportunity to wake up tomorrow morning… and every other morning for the rest of your life… with less pain… worth the 60 minutes it will take to be evaluated?

What else could you possibly do with that same 60 minutes that could have such a profound impact on the rest of you and your family's lives?

You know, it's really disappointing to me that so many people just go on living with pain when you don't have to. So many of patients tell us how they used to be in pain… just about every day.

They were is so much pain... they were grumpy and miserable all the time. They hated work. They're relationships were strained. Life was just one big struggle Now that they've discovered what we will reveal to you at your free screening… all that's changed…

Work and family have become rewarding and fun. Life is so much easier and better… in so many ways… without the pain. Finally, things start falling into place the way you always thought they would.

One of the best things or physicians and staff hear is "Hey doc since starting this program I've lost 17 pounds because now that I can finally move around pain-free the weight just keeps coming off!"

Which one of those amazing things I just mentioned would you like to happen to you… right now.

Maybe it's none of the things I've mentioned. But, you do have hopes and dreams. We all do. And pain robs you of the opportunity to live out those hopes and dreams. Robs you of the life you really and desperately want… and deserve.

Whatever YOUR personal hopes and dreams are…They are all possible if you take action… right now.

All you have to do is give this a chance and schedule for the screening . But then again…

What's also possible is that your pain starts getting worse. And that happens to so many people from just doing nothing.

Taking action may seem like a little work… or… it may even be a little scary for you – but not taking actions is almost always worse. The eight most dangerous words to your future, your health, and your hopes and dreams just may be…

It Will Just Get Better All By Itself!

Fact is... it may only get worse.

Here Is How To Get Your Free Screening...

Just call us at 877 380 8537 and tell the scheduling coordinator you want your free screening. If you are one of the first 50, it is 100% free. No obligation or strings attached.

There is NOTHING to pay for and you will NOT be stressed in any way . We don't ever do that. . You see, is not uncommon for us to get over 100 new patient calls in a single day.

Most are from word of mouth. But we wanted to open up this opportunity to as many arthritis pain sufferers as possible.

But because we get so many calls... we can only take 50 from what you are reading this month.

You have absolutely zero to lose and possibly everything to gain. But due to high call volume, we suggest you call now. 877 380 8537

Study shows this treatment was successful in 75% of knee arthritis pain sufferers... saving them from surgery for at least 7.3 years. Will it work for you? Find out for FREE

Barkley, Giants run over Redskins

Rookie rusher puts together monster first half as Big Blue rolls to biggest win of 2018.

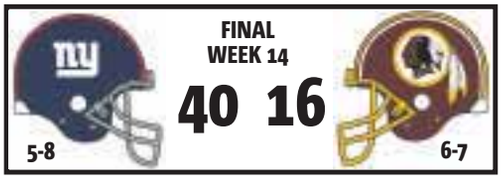
If there were any doubters out there who still believed the New York Giants made the wrong pick in the 2018 NFL Draft, Sunday should have done enough to shut them up.

Rookie running back Saquon Barkley ran rampant on the league's seventh-ranked defense in Week 14, posting 170 rush yards and 197 total yards from scrimmage with a touchdown as the Giants steamrolled the Washington Redskins 40-16.



After putting up 30 points against one of the league's best defenses in the Chicago Bears, the Giants were expected to have little issue outscoring a Washington Redskins team on their third-string quarterback in Mark Sanchez. The former Jets passer was thrust into action after injuries to Alex Smith and Colt McCoy.

After a slow start that featured six punts from both teams to start the game, the Giants turned Sunday's tilt into an unexpected embarrassment, scoring 34 unanswered points in the first half.

It was New York's defense, which forced three turnovers against the Bears last week, that opened the scoring as a deflected pass from Sanchez in the shadow of his own goal line was picked off by Curtis Riley and returned nine yards for the touchdown.

They kept the Redskins offense completely stymied, ensuring their own attack had enough time to warm up and blow the doors off the hosts.

After an Aldrick Rosas field goal, Barkley boogied 78 yards untouched with 8:42 left in the half to give the Giants a commanding 17-0 lead.

That run alone was more rushing yards than he accrued during the Week 8 loss to the Redskins. It also gave the Giants more points in 21-plus minutes than they had in that 20-13 loss.

The run was Barkley's fourth touchdown run of the season that went 50 yards or more. The Giants had just three in the previous 10 seasons.

Alec Ogletree's third interception in two weeks deep in Redskins territory once again set up Sterling Shepard's three-yard touchdown score just two minutes later as the rout was on.

Barkley would answer his long score with a 52-yard on New York's next drive that would set up Bennie Fowler's six-yard score, giving the back a career-high 159 rushing yards in a single game on just 10 carries.

And that was before halftime.

The Giants kept the gas pedal down as Manning threw his third touchdown pass of the day in the third quarter, hitting Russell Shepard for an 11-yard score to make it 40-0. It was the first time the Giants hit the 40-point mark in a game since Week 8 of the 2015 season.

It ushered the end of the day for both starting quarterbacks.

Sanchez's miserable day came to a close when Josh Johnson, who was signed earlier this week after being made the No. 1 draft pick of the AAF's San Diego Fleets, was called into action.

The Giants defense was superb, limiting Sanchez to just six completions for 38 yards on the day.

Johnson would score Washington's first points of the day with an eight-yard scramble with 11:56 remaining in the game, then grab another when he hit Jameson Crowder on a 79-yard touchdown pass just three minutes later.

In the meantime, Manning finished the day completing 14-of-22 passes for 197 yards to go with those three touchdowns.

Rookie Kyle Lauletta stepped in to make his NFL debut and didn't do much to suggest that he could be Manning's successor. He didn't complete a single pass on five attempts, which included an interception on just his second career attempt.
